Learning outcomes  [Description of the overall and specific objectives] [Knowledge, skills and competences to be developed by students]	The Course of History of Politics and Social Institutions corresponds to the acquisition and deepening of knowledge about the relations of Portuguese society, valuing the evolution registered in the political field, in the field of ideologies and social movements. The aim is to (re) build with the students the historical trajectory of social assistance, and the policies that underlie it, from the Monarchy, through the laicizing work of the Republic, through the way the Estado Novo conceived the Portuguese Social Work to reinforce the State power in alliance with the Church, underlining the modeling induced in the social commitment of the State in Democratic Portugal. The student must acquire and deepen scientific knowledge of a factual and temporal nature related to the Portuguese social reality, considering the evolution registered in the political, ideological and social movements. In the same vein, the mastery of theoretical and conceptual frameworks specific to this subject area is fundamental for the cultural progression of future social service professionals. The student must be able to relate and integrate the knowledge produced by different perspectives of scientific analysis of social reality in the study of Portuguese society. The development of social attitudes and values necessary for the performance of the profession and the conscious exercise of citizenship is also another fundamental point.
