Prerequisites [Curricular Units that must precede and specific entry competences]	Not applicable
Learning outcomes [Description of the overall and specific objectives] [Knowledge, skills and competences to be developed by students]	Local and Regional Social Communication is a theoretical-practical curricular unit. Its objective is to provide knowledge regarding the specificity of local and regional media, with respect to their social function, discursive practices and informational language. A conceptual approach, a historical and legislative framework of the local media in Portugal, will be made. Being a curricular unit that fits the journalism option, special attention will be paid to the specificity of journalism practiced in the local media. Finally, the curricular unit will problematize the new scenarios of local and regional social communication, namely its contextualization within the multimedia and digital communication. It is intended that students acquire skills in the analysis and problematization of journalistic practice in the context of local Portuguese media.
